School Board OKs Admin. salary hikes

By ALISON ALOISIO

The SAD44 School Board Monday night approved pay raises for administrators of 3.5 percent for FY'96 and 3 percent for FY'97.

The agreement also included increases in the benefit package, but details were not available at press time. Administrators approved the agreement on Tuesday.

Voting in favor of the increases were directors John Brown and Fran Head of Bethel, Susan Gordon and Amy Chapman of Greenwood, Sid Lew and Brad Hubbard of Andover, and Marcel Polak, Margaret Hand, and T.L. McGee of Woodstock.

Voting against the agreement were Jane Lowe, Wendie Gray, and Martin Brown of Bethel.

Gray said after the meeting that she was "philosophically opposed to a general, every-year increase that does not include a merit pay system."

"We just have to keep finding a way to keep the money on the table," she said.

Head said the board will have a merit pay system.

Not a single person in the audience asked, "What kind of job are they doing for it?" he said.

Head said the board will have a merit pay system.

WALKING INTO A FUTURE OF SERVICE—Gould Academy seniors spent the week of Feb. 24-March 2 doing public service projects in various locations around New England. This group worked at the Nature Conservancy in Biddeford, building picnic tables and repairing wooden walkways. The projects are part of Gould's Four Point Program, which takes students off-campus for a week. Freshmen toured Toronto, Ottawa, and Montreal, Canada. Sophomores worked at Habitat for Humanity sites in Biddeford, Hartford, Connecticut, and Hingham, Massachusetts. Juniors went winter camping, learning outdoor survival techniques. Bethel Sign Ordinance

Planners agree to change the way they deal with variance requests But old decisions will stand

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Bethel Planning Board has agreed to tighten up on the way it grants variances to the town's Sign Ordinance.

But the planners also opted not to revisit past decisions -- the more stringent procedures they have now agreed to will apply only to future applicants.

For at least the past two years the Planning Board has routinely granted variances to various Sign Ordinance requirements, but without making formal "findings of facts." (Such findings explain and document the reasoning behind the variances.)

The Sign Ordinance, however, requires findings of fact for all variances.

For example, before granting a variance based on "undue hardship," the board must document that the applicant has met each of four specific "criteria of hardship." But the board recently granted such a hardship variance for the Pleasant River Motel sign -- without any documentation as to the reasons for the variance.

The Sign Ordinance is more restrictive in this regard than other town ordinances, and the Planning Board members conceded last week that they had been operating under the more relaxed standards of, for example, the Site Plan Review Ordinance when granting variances.

"I think where we were getting all confused is we were taking the site plan and using it for the Sign Or-

Other members nodded in agreement.

Their confusion was compounded by the wording of the Sign Ordinance, which appears to blur the

Escrow issues still stall Station land swap deal

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Bethel Board of Selectmen and Bethel Station developer Heinie Merrill will try again today to get to the bottom of the escrow issues.

Two lengthy meetings last week failed to wrap up the final details of the Bethel Station land-for-buildings swap.

Both sides are eager to conclude matters.

Merrill needs to move ahead on getting the new parkway out to bid. The selectmen want the town to be able to move into its new Public Works Garage -- and as a board they need to move on to other matters, like the upcoming town budget.

Most of the house ends have been tied up. The parties are in agreement on the description of the remaining work to be completed at the garage and ambulance barn, and on the amount of money the developers will put into escrow until that work is completed.

The remaining sticking points concern the road and utility work associated with the project -- including which construction components should be covered by escrow, how much each component is expected to cost, and what percentage over anticipated cost the developer will escrow in order to protect the town against possible cost overruns.

The selectmen and Merrill will meet at 4 p.m. this afternoon, in the Town Office meeting room, to try again to hammer out the final details.

Town Meeting Tuesday

By MICHAEL DANIELS

There will be a special Town Meeting in Bethel next Tuesday, at which voters will be asked to approve dedicating a small portion of Davis Park to the Maine Department of Transportation, to authorize the town to accept block grant money for Bethel Station infrastructure work, and to adopt the bylaws at the Oxford County Regional Solid Waste Corporation.

There are two articles affecting Davis Park.

The first would allow MDOT to take ownership of a 32-by-85-foot piece of land in the south corner of Davis Park, in order to make room for a sidewalk along Route 26.

Gilead pay hikes proposed

By ALISON ALOISIO

Gilead's annual town meeting was held Tuesday, March 14, to approve 20 percent raises for select officials, and the raising of $50,000 for a new truck.

Next week, the town budget is expected to increase only $1,500 over last year's appropriation of $108,118. The current rate of $14.80 is expected to remain essentially the same, according to selectman David Carleton.

Tire fire emergency plan being drawn up

By ALISON ALOISIO

While the state prepares to take legal action against the Gould Academy fire facility (Citizen, March 8), Greenwood Fire Chief Ray Seames is preparing an emergency plan in case of a fire at the site -- where 1.7 million tires are stored.

"They don't catch on fire easily, but the Fire Department can't risk being caught unprepared."

"I've talked with other departments that have had tire fires, like South Paris. They had a small fire (about 10 years ago), and they had to keep a truck on the scene for two weeks. A fire at one of these sites could go for six to 18 months," Seames said last week.

Part of the problem in fighting a tire fire is that firemen can't use their usual weapon -- water.

"It would cause groundwater contamination. One passenger car tire produces about four quarts of petroleum by-product if it melts. The fire dump sits over an aquifer, and it could pollute."

West Paris approves addition

By BRANE HAYES

Social service organization funding and a new town building addition were the major topics of debate at West Paris' 1995 Town Meeting, held last Tuesday.

An unusually small crowd, of 80-plus people, gathered to consider a warrant containing 17 articles.

Those who did have the steadily increasing divide discussed whether to fund out-of-town social service organizations, how much tax money would be devoted to that purpose, how to handle late requests in the town, and whether to consider funding for new organizations, like the three requests.

As to the building, asking the citizens to vote not to fund any out-of-town social service organizations, beginning in 1996, the majority voted to pass over the article, leaving it a decision for the future.

The pro and con for and against the article included several residents, many of whom felt it is the duty of West Paris to continue to help such organizations, as there are many people in the town who have been and still are receiving help, especially the elderly.

Others, however, said they felt it isn't right to mandate taxpayers to support charity groups because it should be the peoples' right to pick

PLANNING BOARD CREATED CHAOS

To the Editor:

I have had a hard time trying to determine the real issues underlying the recent Sign Ordinance variance for Pleasant River Motel, but it seems to come down to the relationship we prefer between individual freedoms and community law. By chance I came upon a helpful definition of personal liberty several weeks ago. It was in a newspaper clipping, brown with age, which fell out of a book from an old Bethel home. It quoted the Maine Supreme Court. (The italics were in the clipping.)

"The great degree of liberty which we enjoy in this country, the degree of personal liberty which every man and woman enjoys, is limited by a like degree of liberty in every other person, and it is the duty of men and the duty of women in their conduct, in the exercise of the liberty which they enjoy, to consider that every man or woman has the right to exercise the same degree of liberty; that when one person enters into society -- and society is the state in which personal liberty exists -- each gives up something of that liberty in order that the other may enjoy the same degree of liberty. It is the conception that perhaps some people find difficult to understand, but it is the conception of the liberty which we enjoy."

The clipping went on to say:

"You recall the story of the Irishman who, on landing in this country, threw his arms around indiscriminately and happened to hit an American citizen on the nose; whereupon the American promptly knocked Pat down. 'Begorra,' said Pat, as he picked himself up, 'I was told that this was a free country.' 'So it is,' said the American, 'but your freedom ends where my nose begins.' It is an apt illustration of mutual rights and obligations in a liberty regulated by law, as distinguished from lawless license, under which ordered government would be impossible."

Theodore Roosevelt made a similar point when he suggested that a sense of collective responsibility must be added to individual freedom and responsibility. He feared that uncompromising individual freedom was, as he put it, simply a sentimental excuse for personal greed, an invitation to abandon moral purpose. The result would be "a riot of lawless business individualism which would be quite as destructive to real civilization as the lawless military individualism of the Middle Ages." (Autobiography)

The variance provision is a fair aspect of Bethel's Sign Plan Ordinance. The sheer degree to which the Pleasant River sign, however, has been painted as it is, exceeds the sign ordinance standards six times larger than the variance extension a mockery of the whole ordinance system. It also places in doubt the faith which some board members have in government at all, as Dennis Doyon suggested in his resignation. This seems particularly true in Mr. Doyon's case, for he is a member of the Planning Board himself, understands the ordinance, and will want his sign approved. The town is under no obligation to remove him of his responsibility to follow the ordinance or the unusual situation of his sign.

Mr. Doyon's resignation is a welcome expression of a sense of civic responsibility, and I applaud his strong stance. In my opinion, those who vote for the variance in fact have in fact not only voted against the ordinance but against the whole system of ordinance. This is not a sign ordinance, it is an ordinance destruction, based primarily on a notion of individual freedom which suggests one might be able to do whatever one wishes. That a sign on a property which should be protected from a "taking" as was suggested, makes no more sense than that a car illegally parked should be protected from being impounded because it is personal property. This is a variance upholding the law with stealing. Mr. Doyon's resignation in the end has to replace the sign with a number of images for which was a simple threat to the board that he would do whatever else he felt if it did not allow him to keep what he had already done which does not conform. He knew, of course, that the Sign Ordinance Committee was geared up recently out of a general concern regarding internally it seems, so his threat may have been a clever tactic. The fact that Mr. Doyon sits on the board, however, and for his own purposes has undermined the sign ordinance, now makes it impossible for him, short of total hypocrisy, to deny anything else a variance beyond ordinance. His presence on the board now throws the ordinance into a state of disarray, and he should therefore resign.

There was not much that is pretty in these tactics of extracting an exemption from the board, the predisposition of its members to kind helpfulness, but still standing. The process by which the ordinance was changed seems to have something to do with the currently in a state of mind that would mean dismantling all regulatory government of every opportunity. The problem with the nation is that it has been divided as somehow separate from the community, as if he did not have any neighbors whom his actions might affect in a less than respectful manner. Nothing could be more clear: the freedom of one man to do what he pleases is the community's collective rights and standards can only establish a precedent for that respect to be appropriate behavior for the next. The ordinance has been de facto erased, and by tactics rather than discussion.

The vote on the Sign Ordinance variance suggests that the freedoms of a select few are more valid than the freedoms of the many, the community, for which the ordinances have been conceived as guarantees that all individuals enjoy equal freedoms, shared opportunity for prosperity and the pursuit of happiness through the shared personal limitations articulated in our ordinances. Those limitations are hardly excessive.

The Planning Board vote created chaos. That is not federalism; that is feudalism, as Roosevelt suggested. Freedom has been misapplied as license, and that is not good for our community. For these reasons I am appealing the variance extension in the hope that we can return to the workable predictability and protections which our few local laws are meant to provide.

BIPARTISAN SUPPORT
For Governor Angus King and his cabinet preparing for four years in Maine's political wilderness meant spending four days in the real wilderness of Newry. King and company took part in an Outward Bound retreat focused on team-building. Press secretary Dennis Bailey said after the experience, "We had a group of people who had been thrown together to work together. It would have taken six months to get to where we are now, as far as knowing each other. We made up a lot of time. We should work smoother as a team, and that will be good for us and the people of Maine." Here, King balances on the shoulders of Public Safety Commissioner Alfred Skoffeld, left, and Defense and Veterans Affairs Commissioner Earl Adams during an activity last Thursday. Balancing the state budget may be more of a challenge.

A RARE MAN OF PRINCIPLE

To the Editor:

Principle -- that is why Dennis Doyon resigned from the planning board last week. He was appointed to the planning board seven years ago by Bethel Selectmen to uphold the ordinances of the town. Last week he voted not to allow one local business a third waiver for a sign six times larger than normally allowed under the town ordinance.

Principle -- it is not fair to all past businesses and all future businesses who comply with Bethel's sign ordinance.

Principle -- it is too bad that some people do not have it. Dennis, you are a man of principle.

TOO MANY SCHOOL DAYS MISSED

To the Editor:

This is Maine and we can expect a variety of miserable winter weather. It is for just that reason that we are equipped and prepared to meet the challenge of making our roads safe for residents, skiers, and students.

As the mother of two elementary students in SAD44, the last place I want my children is on a school bus in treacherous driving conditions. However, I do believe children need to be in school.

This winter our school officials haven't extended the option of a one hour, a 90-minute, or, if necessary, even a two-hour delay in the start of the school day. On more than one occasion such a decision would have avoided sacrificing an entire day of learning.

That learning is much more valuable now than after mid-June when children would rather be on the beach or riding their bikes than sitting in the classroom.

With that in mind, I urge those that decide whether or not to cancel school to put more faith in our very qualified road crews and bus drivers and far less in the meteorologists.

Salaries

Pew said he thought the raises were "fair and equitable".

Telstar Principal Ted Davis said he thought the settlement was fair, because administrators had taken salary freezes "two or three times" in recent years. He said the freezes were accompanied by minimal insurance benefit increases.

Davis also said he had no problem with the concept of merit pay.

"I'm not afraid of it, but I'm concerned about who would administer it -- who makes the decisions and what the criteria are," he said.

Davis said the idea had been studied under former Supt. Dewaine Craig.

"We tried to work out something that had the flavor of merit pay, but the board didn't buy it," he said. (Next week's Citizen will list individual administrators' salaries for the current and coming year.)

Overall budget up 2.7 to 8.6%

The preliminary FY'96 proposal for the overall SAD44 budget calls for an increase of from 2.73 to 8.58 percent.

At Monday night's School Board meeting Supt. Ronald Jenkins presented a general fund budget that would break the $7 million mark for the first time. (Adult Education is a separate budget.)

But without figures available yet on what share the state would pay, it is impossible to know how much of an increase to the local assessment that would mean, according to Jenkins.

Last year's budget was $6,845,356. Jenkins explained that a 2.73 percent increase, to $7,032,503, does not take into account potential raises for administrators, teachers, and support personnel.

Negotiations with the latter two bargaining units are not yet concluded.

The larger, 8.58 percent proposal, includes $400,000 for raises, as well as money to upgrade the computer technology program at Telstar Middle School (TMS) to a level comparable with the elementary schools.

Jenkins said $150,000 to $175,000 would be needed to bring the technology to the CPS level, and $125,000 would be his minimum recommendation.

He also said administrators took into account board member requests for budget items, including a new Telstar in-school suspension monitor, as well as additional music and art at Telstar, and the computer upgrade.

Other items to be added include: Telstar High School department chairmen, TMS student assistance teams, TMS/TMS computer teacher, TMS/TMS library upgrade, two additional NOVA programs at TMS, increased TMS keyboarding program, and increased elementary library services and computer offerings.

Other substantial budget increases would come from a bus purchase, bringing buildings into compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act, and second-year costs of a district-wide computer lease/purchase agreement.

While the new programs would be bought partly through the budget increase, they would also come at the cost of several existing positions and programs.

"There is no free lunch, folks. In order to add something, something has to go away -- in order to stay in the ballpark of a budget that stands a chance of passing," Jenkins said.

Cuts would include a TMS English, guidance, and business teacher, the TMS Allied Arts program (other than languages), and some Chapter I reading services.

The high school positions would be eliminated primarily due to decreased enrollments, he said.

Jenkins said NOVA Region 9 would take over and expand the business and graphic arts programs, and would also convert the present home economics offering to a hospitality program.

"We have more kids that should be in a truly vocational program. There is also a slight funding advantage to doing it that way," Jenkins said.

There was little discussion of the budget at the board meeting, as many directors were receiving the 51-page printout for the first time Monday evening.

Jenkins emphasized the budget is preliminary. The board will consider it in an upcoming series of workshops, beginning Monday, March 20 at 7 p.m. at the Woodstock School.

"The public is welcome to attend and give input," Jenkins said.

Fire plan

Kendall Brook and possibly the Androscoggin.

That leaves containment, or covering the fire with sand and gravel, as the only realistic options.

Besides dealing with the fire at its origin, the fire department and other emergency services would also be faced with another, farther-reaching effect -- smoke.

"Within about a two-mile radius, it could cause serious health conditions. A five-mile radius would be what I'd call a "nuisance" effect, although with carbon by-products falling to the ground, DEP would probably term it more than a nuisance," Seames said.

The season, time of day, and especially the wind would play a key role in how the area would be affected by a fire.

"It hinges so much on the weather. If the wind is from the north, it's beneficial to Bethel. If the wind is from the south, it's worse for Bethel," he said.

Seames said the need for a mass evacuation seems unlikely.

"It would probably be confined to people with particular health problems. For most people it would work better just to stay inside and keep the doors and windows closed if the smoke is bad," he said.

Seames will continue work on his plan over the coming months, coordinating with other area fire departments.

Briefly

Gilbert will not seek reelection

BETHEL--Art Gilbert, a member of the Bethel Board of Selectmen for the past nine years and its chairman for the past two, has announced that he will not seek reelection. "I will not be a candidate for another term as selectman," Gilbert said. "I thank all those who have supported me in the past."

Gilead gets its big break

GILEAD--Gilead, Maine is going to be in a Hollywood movie. Unfortunately, it's only the name that will be in the movie, not the real local town. The fictional "Spitfire Grill" in Gilead, Maine will be the setting for "c/o Spitfire Grill," which will be shot not in Gilead, but in Peacham, Vt. Christine Robinson, a location specialist for the Maine Film Commission, said a scriptwriter apparently liked the name "Gilead," but the company producing the film preferred the Vermont location. The film is slated to star Oscar winning actress Ellen Burstyn and will cost $4 million to make.

Gill makes bail

PORTLAND--Charles Gill of Bethel has posted a $10,000 bail bond and was released from federal custody last week. Gill was arrested in early December and charged with state misdemeanor charges of unlawful practice of psychology and with one felony charge of theft by deception in connection with his employment at the Bethel Area Health Center, where he treated patients for nine months. Federal charges of making a false statement on a passport application and mis-using a passport were added later. Last month Gill posted $13,500 cash bail on the state charges, and he was immediately turned over to U.S. Marshals. A trial date of March 21 has been set for the federal charges; a trial on the state charges is expected to follow later.

But Flynn stays in Former Bethel developer and restaurateur John P. Flynn Jr.'s latest bid for freedom has failed. Flynn was arrested here by federal marshals in August 1993 on charges of probation violation. The probation stemmed from his conviction ten years earlier as a marginal player in the largest white-collar crime in New Hampshire history. The probation-violation charges stemmed in turn from his business activities here, especially at the former Mayville Tavern. The allegations included forgery, theft, theft by deception, wire fraud, insurance fraud, bank fraud and making threats of violence and false statements to his probation officer. Flynn was eventually returned to prison to complete the five years of probation, remaining from the New Hampshire conviction, but earlier this year he appealed the resentencing, arguing that his probation had already expired. Earlier this month, however, the United States Court of Appeals turned down his appeal.

Winsor fined for real estate violation

AUGUSTA--State Rep. Tom Winsor (R-Norway) was fined $1,200 last week by the Maine Real Estate Commission for allowing broker Carol Archambault to sell property for Maine Street Realty of Bethel while licensed with The Real Estate Associates of Norway. By law, brokers can only be licensed to sell for one agency. Winsor is listed as the designated broker for both agencies. Commissioners imposed a fine twice that recommended by the Attorney General's office. They cited the fact that Winsor continued to allow the action after being notified by the commission that the activity was not allowed under law. Winsor's attorney, state Sen. Dana Hanley of Paris, had argued that the law is vague about agencies sharing brokers. He called for the complaint to be dismissed and suggested the commission seek legislative action to clarify the law. The commissioners said they believed the law is clear.

SAD17 changes representation

SOUTH PARIS--The 22-member SAD17 School Board voted unanimously last week to add a director for Otisfield and another for Hebron, and take one each away from Norway and Paris. The change would be effective July 1 if approved by the state. It would give Otisfield and Hebron two members each and reduce Norway and Paris to four each. The board uses a weighted voting system, and the smaller towns' current votes would be split between two directors. While their overall power will not increase, the towns will each gain another voice on the board, satisfying the concerns of Otisfield's Joseph Vaillancourt. "If one of us (himself or Hebron's Gino Valeriani) are ill and cannot attend or have a schedule conflict, our towns aren't represented," he said. The board's reorganization will not have to be approved by the towns because the number of votes is not affected, according to Supt. Mary Jane McCallmon.

Bowie pleads innocent to murder

PARIS--Robert Bowie Jr. pleaded innocent last week in Oxford County Superior Court to a charge that he murdered his 53-year-old father at their Hebron home on Jan. 7. Bowie Jr., 28, is accused of the stabbing and bludgeoning death of Robert Bowie Sr. The defendant was returned to state prison in Warren after his court appearance. Following his arrest, Bowie Jr. was examined by an Augusta Mental Health Institute psychiatrist, as ordered by the court.

Abused dog finds new home

PHILLIPS--Lady, the injured dog that had been abused by a Waterford man, has found a happy home with a caring couple. The dog suffered a deep laceration on her back while being dragged with a rope behind a snowmobile. Police found the injured animal and placed it in an Auburn animal shelter where it was put up for adoption. David and Maureen Soutter of Phillips were among about a dozen potential adoptive families and were chosen because they "showed a lot of interest if the dog," said Steven Dostie of the animal shelter. Maureen Soutter said they wanted to "give the dog a home." "The bad wound on her back is healing beautifully," she added. Lady's former owner, Todd Greig, was summoned to court to answer a charge of cruelty to animals.

Back to seven-digit dialing

AUGUSTA--NYNEX will soon offer old-fashioned, statewide seven-digit dialing as an alternative to the eleven-digit system now in place. The phone company is making the change in response to complaints from customers about having to dial 1-207 before making long distance calls within the state. The reinstatement of the seven-digit option comes per order of the state Public Utilities Commission. Customers who choose to will be able to keep the 1-207 option as a way to keep track of when they are making in-state long-distance calls. Customers will be told in their bills when the easier dialing option becomes available. They will stay on the 1-207 system unless they ask to be switched.

7-pound ulcer

DICKSON, TENN.--For eight months, Kim Pentecost thought she was suffering from peptic ulcers. She found out differently March 2--that's when she gave birth to a healthy, 7-pound boy. Pentecost said she never suspected she was pregnant, just sick with an upset stomach. "I thought when I first saw the baby it was a joke," she said. "I'm still in shock, but this baby is the best thing that ever happened to me." William Richard Pentecost was delivered about 7:30 a.m., with some coaching from a 911 operator. He is the first child of his 27-year-old mother. Pentecost said she developed symptoms, including severe nausea, last summer and was diagnosed as having ulcers. Her mother, Carolyn, said she thought early on her daughter could be pregnant, but gave up on the notion as her daughter's condition worsened. "Nobody gets that sick when they're pregnant," she said, adding that her daughter lost 60 pounds over the eight-month and weighed about 155 pounds when William was born. "I'm in perfect condition, the baby is in perfect condition, and the good news is my ulcers are gone now," she said.

Variances

distinction between variances and waivers (which require less documentation).

Town Manager Madeleine Henley told the board last week that the town's attorney had reviewed the situation and suggested two options: the board could simply acknowledge the mistakes and move on, or it could go back to the two waivers that are still within the 30-day appeal period and "do a finding of fact to legitimize those."

The two signs still in the appeal period are those at the Pleasant River Motel and at Ruthies (formerly the Brass Buckle and Fashion Basket). The sign at Ruthies received a waiver to project further off the building than called for in the ordinance.

The board, however, opted not to go back to either of these two cases.

Instead, suggested Brown, the board should "start over again today and don't go backwards." There was no need, he said, "to get Francis (Dumont) mixed up in it or Ruthie (Grover) mixed up in it."

His suggestion was accepted without objection.

In order to reduce the likelihood of such errors in the future, Henley suggested that parts of each Planning Board meeting could be devoted to, "short refresher courses" on the details of the various ordinances administered by the board.

Inconsistencies in administering the ordinances, she said, make it difficult for town office staff to deal with applicants or other people who come in asking questions about town regulations.

"It makes life difficult on this end if we don't feel we can have predictable behavior," she said.

Other business

The board last week also approved an amendment to Gould Academy's permit for renovations at the former Muriel Park Mason residence on Church Street.

The amendment, approved unanimously, allows the academy to cut five maple trees, in order to make more room for parking.

A second amendment, for parking-lot lighting, was taken under consideration.

A number of other projects were discussed last week, but are not at the stage where formal board action is required. These include a glass-blowing business and gift shop at 31 Park Street; an eight-lot subdivision, Chandler Brook Acres, on Chandler Hill Road; and a proposed right of way through one lot at the Forest Park Homes subdivision on Route 26.

The glass-blowing business and subdivision are expected to be back before the Planning Board at a later date. The board agreed that the Forest Park easement could be handled by a plat-plan amendment.

Bethel meeting

The second would convey a 20-foot-wide drainage easement, to be used for storm-drain outflow lines from part of the roadwork associated with the project.

The next article would authorize the town to apply for and accept approximately $410,000 in Community Development Block Grant funds.

In the 1994 referendum vote on the Bethel Station land swap, town voters approved a blanket authorization intended to cover such grants, but the agency administering this grant (the state Department of Economic and Community Development) is now requiring specific voter authorization for each of its individual grants.

The final warrant article would adopt the bylaws of the county recycling agency.

Bethel has been participating in OCSWC programs for five years, but the various town in the program have different bylaws -- which the agency is now seeking to make uniform.

Tuesday's Town Meeting will be held at Telstar Lecture Hall, beginning at 7 p.m.

From the Bethel Police log:

Domestic problems drive man into woods

On March 9 at 10:23 p.m. an Oxford County Sheriff's Department Deputy requested assistance at a residence on the Old County Road in Bryant Pond at a domestic call. The subject was arrested after being talked out of the woods, where he had fled on foot.

Sunday, March 12

At 12:10 a.m. an employee at Rhea-Lu's China Gem Restaurant reported the driver of a van with Massachusetts commercial license plates had left the restaurant and appeared to be intoxicated. Police arrived and observed the vehicle in the rear parking lot of the restaurant. The driver was mildly intoxicated. He stated he was just parked there eating, and the owner of the van was in the back asleep. It was agreed that the sober owner would drive and the subject ride.

At 10:02 a.m. a Philbrook St. resident reported a fire hydrant had been knocked over or hit by a vehicle. Police located the hydrant at the intersection of Paradise and Broad Streets. It had about $150 in damage, but it could not be determined if it had been knocked over or struck by a vehicle.

At 3:38 p.m. the Gorham, N.H. Police Department reported a 1992 black Hyundai traveling east on Route 2 after the driver had left without paying for gas. Police located the vehicle, stopped it, and identified the subject. She said she had paid for the gas but the store had given her back the wrong change. The Gorham police requested that Bethel police obtain the $5 owed and mail it to them. Police complied with the request.

At 7:29 p.m. a West Paris woman reported her dog had received two broken bones on Route 26 in Bethel and it did not appear to have been caused by a vehicle. She felt it had been done by an upset neighbor. The dog was picked up by a passing plow truck and brought to the vet where it was later put to sleep. The woman said she felt the neighbor was not telling the truth when she talked to him because she had found a chain at his house, and she had had trouble with him in the past. The case was turned over to the animal control officer for investigation.

At 7:35 p.m. an Intervale Road resident reported her car stereo had been taken from her car at Big Bob's Store on Route 2, while her son was working there. Someone had entered the unlocked vehicle and pulled out the stereo. Its value was estimated to be $250.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity.

DIABETES INFO LINE

Maine residents have a place to turn for quick, accurate, up-to-date answers and referrals to their questions about diabetes -- The American Diabetes Association's Diabetes Information & Action Line (D.I.A.L.).

D.I.A.L. is designed to handle a full range of calls from individuals recently diagnosed with diabetes to people who have had the disease for decades. D.I.A.L. links callers with trained counselors who verbally offer information, determine written information to send, and make referrals to diabetes medical professionals.

The association is prepared to answer questions such as, "Will the medication I am taking affect my diabetes control?" "What should I do to prevent foot problems?" "What are the guidelines on the use of sugar?"

Maine residents can reach D.I.A.L. by calling 1-800-870-8000.

and choose what groups they want to support, whether they want to donate at all, or how much they would contribute if they did support certain organizations.

John Haney said, "It isn't fair that donating to social service organizations is mandated onto the taxpayers. People who want to donate should be doing so hand-to-hand and have a choice of organizations they want to give to."

It was also pointed out by several other citizens that they have nothing against social service organizations and realize they serve a valuable purpose, "but it's hard enough to pay our taxes as it is in the present economy."

Supporting the present system used in providing town support, David Walton countered, "For West Paris not to fund social services, is that the way we want to look? Do we really want West Paris to not fund any social services? To start cutting these people off is to shut ourselves off. I don't think I want to send that message out about West Paris."

Philip Merrill agreed with Walton, adding, "I'm sure we have many people receiving help and I think we should help them."

Another article asking the voters to authorize the selectmen to hold a tight line on social service requests coming in after the Dec. 15 deadline was passed, and any such late request will no longer be honored or placed in the town report beginning this year.

A third article was also passed over, which would have authorized the selectmen to not fund any requests from new organizations submitting for the first time. People felt that there might be some coming on line in the future that might be valuable to local residents.

The second major issue regarded giving the selectmen authority to send out and accept bids for the purpose of constructing a 40-by-40-foot addition on the northeast side of the West Paris Municipal Office and Garage complex.

The proposed addition, which received a no vote at the 1994 town meeting, was greeted this year with a positive yes.

The reasons for the change in thinking by the residents were: An in-depth study has been made over the past year by an Official Building Study Subcommittee that presented definite plans and cost estimates at last Tuesday's meeting (such items were not available in 1994, leading to the no vote) and presentation of the fact that the town can do the project without raising any additional tax monies.

The financing, not to exceed $80,000, will be obtained through marking and cutting the town woodlot, estimated revenue of $25,000, appropriating $3,638.80 from the Maine State Bureau of Taxation for Tax Relief account, appropriating the approximately $30,000 now available in the building account, and appropriating the balance from a Special account which is left over from closing the old landfill and establishing a new, permanently licensed transfer station.

Selectman Howard Gurney told the people prior to their taking a final vote, "We feel the addition will not go over $80,000 and probably won't even come to that much. Any bids received over $80,000 will not even be considered."

Selectman Wade Rainey explained, "We have had estimates so far ranging from $67,000 to $127,000, and we feel an average of $80,000 can be used as a maximum figure."

Rainey also stated that he didn't expect the final bid the board ends up accepting will reach that maximum either.

In the area of monies voted to be raised by taxation, the townspeople approved a total of $370,775 which is $6,185 higher than the selectmen's proposal, and $22,247 higher than 1994, but, according to Gurney, the board does not see the tax rate having to be raised, as there will be enough revenue coming in, and appropriations from other unappropriated accounts will be enough to hold the tax rate at last year's level.

It was pointed out, however, that the amount raised does not include the school commitment for SAD17, which is estimated to be around $20,000 higher than the $292,098.02 paid out in 1994. Also, the Oxford County tax bill has not yet come in, but the selectmen expect that will probably stay about the same as last year, at $28,676.

They also had to change from a spoken skit to a mimed one.

The team carried over their theme of breaking down barriers, but changed it from time-oriented to an interpersonal focus. They added choreography, which ended with the breaking structure being symbolic of the breaking of the barriers. They decided to transport their structure onto the stage on the hoverboard, and use the same backdrops.

"We were pretty calm, considering the situation," Sarah Crocker said Saturday. She said they tried to look at not having to talk as a benefit, even though it meant adding a whole mime routine.

Last-minute obstacles, which included losing practice time to three snow days off from school, and having a teammate quit in the last week, added to the pressure.

On Saturday they traveled to Central Maine Technical College to face formidable Leavitt High School -- past state competition winners and the only other team in the division this year. The middle-schoolers were forced to make last-minute changes to their structure even as they were preparing to go on stage.

Uncertain of the strength of the structure, the team was cautious in placing weights on it. As a result, they exceeded the time limit for the skit, costing them points in the competition. Leavitt won.

Though disappointed, the Telstar team members were still pleased with their performance under difficult circumstances, and thought they had benefited from the experience.

"As a group we learned how to work under pressure," Carla said.

"We knew we couldn't do worse than second," Heather Roderick joked.

Denise Roderick had only high praise for the team, all but one of whom had done OM with her before.

"You put more work in when you hit the obstacles. You never did as well as you did in there. The mime was beautiful," she told them.

She said the Leavitt coach had also complimented their performance.

Obstacles? Barriers? Another case of life imitating art, perhaps.

Friends of TMS meets

The Friends of T.M.S., a group interested in supporting education at Telstar Middle School, met on Wednesday, March 1.

Co-presidents Pat Donovan and Ellen Marshall led the meeting. Treasurer Ellen Cole reported that fund raising efforts had succeeded in raising $1,039.54 to date. Friends of T.M.S. would like to offer this to middle school students for field trips. Teachers are considering possibilities. Some of the parents volunteered to look into costs and availability of Antitach water slide, Sealogs games, the tram, Hoyts Cinema and buses.

A discussion about school spirit followed. Many parents present expressed their middle schoolers' concerns about the changes made in middle school activities this winter. For example, the loss of the semi-annual dance and the loss of carnival week activities.

Apparently students have not understood the reasons for these changes, and they are not aware of the alternatives that have been planned. How increased communication could be supported in the school was discussed.

One example is that the Student Forum meets after school, which prevents those involved in sports, drama or other after-school activities from participating. Some parents felt that students are not aware of their channels of communication.

Several individuals agreed to look into possible solutions to these immediate problems.

A number of people pointed out how many positive changes have occurred this year: the newsletter, fund raising and the potential for field trips, attention to fifth- and sixth-grade transition, greater parental involvement, etc. Increased involvement was discussed when a fourth-grade parent said she felt it wasn't too early to connect with the middle school. It was agreed that future meetings will be announced in the elementary school newsletters. A possible program was suggested for the May meeting that might specifically invite elementary parents.

The next meeting of Friends of T.M.S. will be held on Wednesday, April 5, 7 p.m. at Telstar library.

Gilead

Voters will elect a selectman and school board member at the meeting, along with the other officers mentioned above. Corriveau said he expects the incumbents to run again, and he did not know of any new candidates.

Selectmen will ask voters to authorize the borrowing of between $50,000 and $70,000 to buy a new plow truck. Corriveau said the current truck is costing too much in repairs to justify keeping it.

Asked why the town does not set up a capital reserve account for such purchases, as some towns do, Corriveau said, "Putting the money aside doesn't save that much, because towns can borrow so cheaply."

It's not worth saving the money because there's not that much interest on it. It doesn't make sense to assume people ten years ahead of time."

An article asking $16,000 to be used for the final stage of the landfill closing would finance the grading and covering of the site.

Selectmen are also recommending funding in the same amount as last year for a dozen social service agencies.

Other articles with substantial monetary amounts include $25,078 for the maintenance of roads and bridges, and $24,075 for long term notes.

The amount needed for SAD44 tuition and NOVA secondary vocational and adult education shares has not yet been determined. Corriveau said estimates will probably have to be used, since he did not expect the figures to be available by Saturday.

The final article asks voters to approve a resolution requesting Maine elected officials to act to reduce the amount of money spent on state and national elections. Corriveau said an organization called the Maine Citizens' Leadership Fund, out of Augusta, had contacted selectmen about including the article.

"We figured it isn't going to do any good, but what the heck, we'd put it in anyway," Corriveau said.

Scholarships for students with farm or woods work backgrounds

The Maine Department of Agriculture is now accepting applications for scholarships from students with farm or woods work backgrounds. This year, more than $20,000 in scholarship funds will be awarded to Maine students from a special fund granted to the state by the Federal Government in the late 1930s. Ada Cookson, who helps to coordinate the Scholarship Program notes that, "The Department wants to help support young people as they further their education."

Individual scholarships, which are awarded on the basis of financial need and funds available, may be used to finance any type of higher education including college, vocational school or trade school. Eligible persons include farmers, woods workers and children of families with farming or woods work backgrounds. Applications are available from the department and must be received no later than June 15.

The "Maine Rehabilitation Fund" originated with a federal grant designed to provide loans to low-income rural families during the Depression years. More recently, a revolving fund organized by the Farmers Home Administration has replaced the original program. The department uses the interest income from the fund to provide the scholarships annually.

Applications and further information are available from the Maine Rural Rehabilitation Scholarship Committee, Ada Cookson, Assistant Coordinator, Maine Department of Agriculture, Station 28, Augusta, ME 04333; tel. 287-7526.

The Snow Valley Sno Goers are hosting a public supper on Saturday, March 18 from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m. at the First Congregational Church CEB. The menu is corned beef and cabbage.

The Service Circle is holding a food sale on Saturday, March 18, at Mills' Market from 9 a.m. until noon. There will be many home baked goods. A cake raffle will be held.

Congratulations to Lindsey Farrington, Student of the Week at AES for Feb. 27, March 3.

Remember to save Campbell's products labels for the AES students. The fourth-grade class won the soup label collecting contest for the month of February.

The newly elected town officials for the selectmen positions are Joe Madigan and Woody Greeke. Rumor has it that each candidate won their seat by only four votes each. Shirley Gammon was elected to serve as treasurer. Kelly Scotti was elected to represent Andover on the SAD44 School Board.

Kelly Cronin, a student at Mid-State College, enjoyed an ice fishing trip to a local spot. Kelly caught an 8 lb., 4 oz., bass that was 24 inches long!

West Bethel

by Constance Broadbent
Dear Est,
I greet you in the Akan language, "Akwaaba", and I want you to know that from the safety of this village in the White Mountains, a concerned group of women convened at our little Union church last week to participate in the 108th annual World Day of Prayer. Our visitors included women from the Congregational and Methodist Churches of downtown Bethel, the Catholic church on the east end of town, and the Union church of the neighboring village of Locke Mills. As the hosts for this year's communion, we women of West Bethel conducted the service, dressed in garb to represent your mode as well as we as we could interpret it, and served up a "Love Feast" of nuts, grains, and dried fruits as an occasion of sharing and bonding with all assembled. We sang one of your folk melodies and prayed together for the peace that we all desire and deserve. All of us gathered to focus our attention on the condition of women around the world, particularly the struggles of the women of Ghana and its neighboring countries.

As we conducted the service provided to us by the National Committee on "WDP", we read the stories of struggle that you and your sisters and neighbors have endured. We learned of your uprootings, your need to relocate in neighboring communities or even neighboring countries when political upheaval wreaked havoc with your economic and your personal freedoms. By focusing on your stories of hunger and loss, we were given a chance to look around us and to remember that not all of us here in America go to bed in our own beds or eat well from any table; let alone our own table. We also learned that in your countries on that warmer quadrant of the vast globe, you too depend on the strength of extended families and gain power from the caring roles that those families play.

Things are not all that different in the northeast sector of this democratic landscape that we call home. Economic slumps and industrial teeterings have caused a bit of a cultural mood swing that may harken to a return to some old ways and to a dependence on family and friends that many 'independent spirits' had let drop by the social wayside in recent decades. The uncertainty of tomorrow has awakened in many of us knowledge of the importance of today and of how we can help each other through the hard times.

Hard times notwithstanding, we continue to move toward the promise of spring and the renewal of life that it portends. In our small village we pore over seed catalogs, planning our strategies for the planting season that we anxiously await. We hasten to complete the winter projects that will be thrust aside, in whatever stage of completion, once the temperatures rise above the mild 50s and the snow melts away from the gardens and the lawns. We stock up on Tupperware (the trusty and oh-so-sturdy containers that can store and save, heat and serve), in anticipation of rich and varied harvests. Several of the Ghanaian interpreters of the aforementioned "Love Feast" joined other Tupperware aficionados last night in my sunroom to ponder and update their collections.

In the gathering and the socializing, we exchange tidbits of the goings on in this small community. We inform each other of the matters of importance: cardinals at each end of the Flat Road... two pairs in plain view at the same time at this lucky house!... cedar waxwings on the return to the north... a whole flock in the white birch tree that offers multi-level perches to the diners of the nearby feeders... a lone partridge in the Westleigh crabapple at the other end of the road, feasting daily on apples and assorted seeds provided by the dwellers who watch in delight from the other side of the window.

We offer condolences to Bob Buker and Barbara Mahler and Wendy Williams in the loss of their fathers, and to Josephine Kendall in the passing of her sister. We pray for the continued improvement of Margaret Merrill so that she can get home to the warmth of Alfred and her kitchen. We send good wishes to Emerson Clough and his new knee in the hopes that all will be mended in time for him to kneel among the strawberries... We sing Happy Birthday to Reggie the keeper of the "Olds-In-A-Box" and take him on a misty mystery ride that includes one stop for lunch and another for dessert. And we offer congratulations and a magic peeler to Ina and Rupert Grover for engaging in life and love and all its attendant joys and sorrows for the past fifty-two years! And most importantly, in terms of the survival of the planet earth, we offer kudos to Annie Pivin for achieving six-ness as she marches with certainty and a large measure of confidence into an uncertain future... for Annie and her sister Laura, and the children of this ailing earth will be charged with the incredible task of repairing our damages and healing the diseases of the forests and the plains, the rivers and the ponds... of reversing the 'terminal' sentence on the flora and the fauna, and in the course of miracles, preserving the planet for their own children and their children's children. Meanwhile, before they catapult to adulthood and leave their nest to literally save the world, I must remember to invite them to my nest for a video visit... I hear that their doting grandmother just presented them with their own copy of "The Lion King"!

On the winds that took our prayers all around the globe last week, I send you good wishes, dear Est, girl of Togo, and thank you once again for sharing your story with us. It was a successful offering of prayers for peace and tranquility here in West Bethel, and the notion that women in all sections of the world were gathering in numbers large and small on the very same day to pray for the common goal, fills my heart with hope. Somehow, in the coming together as a worldwide band of believers in what love can accomplish, there emerges a sense that we will see peace and prosperity in our time. Continue to work with confidence toward your own success. Our encouragement goes with you as you and the women of the village join in the campaign of the Annes and the Lauras of this now small world. The effect will surely be worth the effort.

Love,
C.B.

Another daughter, Priscilla Hansen and family were unable to attend as was also the case for several other grandchildren. Franklin Grange 124 will meet on Monday, March 20, with a 6:30 potluck supper and meeting at 7:30 and program on legislative and St. Patrick's Day.

Ruth Tyler has at least three cardinals at her bird feeder.

The Woodstock Historical Society thanks the newspapers and various correspondents for the publicity they give the organization. Leora Farrington gave a picture to the society and Annette Burnham gave a frame for it.

The Woodstock-Greenwood Senior Citizens met on Thursday for a potluck dinner with 25 present. Thank-yous were read. Linda Haegle from Community Concepts spoke. Next meeting will be April 6 at the Grange Hall with the Daughters of Union Veterans putting on the dinner and silent auction.

More news from the historical society. It examines all aspects of the past. It can have an influence on the present and the future. Perhaps there is a period in history you like to study.

Sympathy is extended to Helen Ravina, Don and the rest of the family in the death of Mr. Reeves.

Callers at the Hoyts Saturday were JoAnn Crockett, Ray and Shawn and Gwenn Hoyt. Bob Hoyt called his Thursday on his way home. Maggie and Joseph Hoyt visited their dad this past weekend.

Greenwood City

by Colista Morgan
Seek beauty and you will find it in so many things past and present. It is in the friendly handshake or a happy smile on the face of one you meet. Beauty comes from the sound of music in the heart, the song of a bird or the rustle of leaves.

At the break of day in the golden dawn, beauty is fresh on the green hills or when the countryside is white with snow. There in the distance one may see a mailbox path on a little round hill covered with pines, an expression of grandeur and solemnity. A pine grove has character unique, with a certain harmonious blending of lightness and darkness, bringing a feeling of cheerfulness or gloom; lights ever changing, because of the thickness above. Sometimes we feel a little of the religious awe as we pass beneath the great arches of a cathedral.

Underneath and among the winter trees are woodland creatures seeking a warmer nook from winds that whisper of zero weather. Within their sheltered haunts are the foxes with graceful beauty gliding from across the snow. Within a hollow sleeps the raccoon waiting, just waiting. The rabbit, the partridge, the mouse with its lacy trails here and there, and the white tailed deer biding time 'til another spring.

These same trees whisper to those that nestle there while branches reach upward toward the brightness of the sky, while the silent earth is resting enfolded in the stillness of white solitude.

Out across the frozen field or down a trodden trail the winter moonlight leads us through the rustle of cattle weeds to a pond's edge. Pause here for grace and beauty, as skates cut figures in the ice and skaters whirl round and round silhouetted against the gleam of a distant bonfire.

Then the glow of a light in a window leads to the cheery warmth of home. "Beauty is so many things, friends we know and love..." Little things and shining stars, snow-white clouds above. All our hearts might find worthwhile in this world of His... A garden path all fresh with dew, that's what beauty is." (Garnett A. Schults)

Time turned back for an hour one night this week, for the power went off.

I was writing so I got out my kerosene lamps and lit them.

Then I thought about the many hours, days, months, years that I lived with just those to study and read by. I could see to write but nothing more. To make matters worse, both of my phones went too. I had no touch with the outside until the power came back. Then I had a phone now and then -- it came to visit, then left. But as of now, March 8, I'm on the line again but I need a new phone.

Sunday, I had an unwelcome visitor. I stepped onto the porch about 7:15 a.m. and on my steps there was one of the largest porcupines I had ever seen. When he saw me he climbed the snowbank and ploughed his way to my shed. I came into the house to get my camera. I took his picture. I wondered why he didn't take the cleared pathway. My answer came. Of course he didn't. He was a porcupine!

Dot Betts had company on the weekend, then went to New Hampshire to visit her daughter.

Ann Holt drove to Berwick for a few days, sent there in connection with her school work. The time that she left here, it was very bad driving.

Rena Curtis' granddaughter, Karen, is a patient at the Maine Medical Center.

A reminder... The Windy Valleys Sno-Mobile Club is sponsoring a Snow-Mobile Safety

Class on March 19, 8:30 a.m. at the Town Building; Perry Edwards will instruct the class. If any additional information is needed, you may call the following: Don Gray at 824-3184, the Town Office at 824-3123, Bill Wight at 824-2262, or Owen Wight at 824-2620. Bring your own lunch, drinks will be provided.

Move over guys! We have voted in a select-woman! It's time for a change, so says all the politicians. Wendy Winescom of Newry was number three at the Town Meeting Monday night, replacing James Sysko. If she does as good a job as she did as a reporter, we have nothing to worry about. We wish her good luck.

The Windy Valleys Sno-Mobile Club met Tuesday night, March 7, at the Town Building with Owen Wight presiding. There was no report from secretary Sylvia Gray, as she was absent due to being busy from the result of the night-before town meeting. Treasurer Bob Lowell brought the finances up to date. M.S.A. director/alternate Sylvia and Bill Wight reported on their Feb. 21 meeting of directors in Bangor. They announced the availability of two $500 scholarships from the M.S.A. and another of $300 from the L.S.C. Northeast Chapter. The 27th annual meeting and banquet of the Maine Snowmobile Association will be Saturday, April 22, at the Ramada Inn & Conference Center in Lewiston. The report on the oyster stew supper was very gratifying, and the winner of the 50-50 gamble gave the money back to the club. We thank her very much for that. There are tickets for sale by the members on the corned beef and cabbage dinner at the Andover Congregational Church ride-in. The club voted to give the Newry Mothers Club $25 toward the Storyland trip for the Newry kids. The club house is being put together by sections at the Western Maine Lowell-owned company and will be assembled at the site as soon as weather permits, and voila! a Club House... There was mention of burning some grass at the Cliff Akers' place when convenient. Coffee and goodies were enjoyed, and Gil passed around some fortune cookies. Next meeting will be April 4 at 7 p.m., same place.

Pastor Rodney Hanscom will conduct a church service Sunday morning, March 12, 9 a.m. at Owen and Sue Wight's residence. All are welcome.

No bowling by the "Newry Bowling Gang" this past week. See you there next week.

Ras and Karlene Bachelder's daughter Claire and her husband George Romano from California are here doing some visiting around Rhode Island and Portland and other parts of Maine where all the relatives are.

Melissa Straus celebrated her birthday on Monday, the 13th, with her father and mother, Gretchen and Bill, and grandfather and grandmother, Sylvia and Bill Wight, and other relatives and friends. Happy Birthday, sweetheart!

Kevin Wight, son of Brad and Brenda Wight, celebrated his sixth birthday on March 8. The party included family and friends. Kevin's mom made two birthday cakes for the occasion. Happy Birthday, Kevin.

P.S. I had the pleasure of being a guest of the Bachelders for dinner Thursday with Claire and George. They told me they had gone to Stratton the day before to visit with Aaron Bachelder, Claire's grandfather, who is in his 90s and still doing well.

This Unit members have expressed regret that they had to cancel the supper and dance which had been scheduled for Feb. 28, but members did not want anyone to be hurt in accidents which might have occurred because of the snowstorm. Another supper and dance has been scheduled for March 14.

It being so close to St. Patrick's Day, the meal will be planned around corned beef and cabbage. The band will be "Crooked Stove Pipe." It is hoped to have another supper and dance in April with the Richard Felt band. Again, the money raised is to purchase a generator for the Legion Hall.

As a result of the articles which the newspapers have run, there have been several leads and one in particular is being followed up. Some generators have just been too small.

At their March 2 meeting, members voted to sponsor a Big Brothers-Big Sisters group. Member Sally Smith, an employee of Wal-Mart, is working on this.

March 16 is the date for the annual Birthday Supper, which this year commemorates 76 years of The American Legion which held its first caucus at Paris, France on March 15, 1919. A ham dinner is planned.

Jackson-Silver Unit, with 100 members, is now at an all-time high in membership for the third year in a row. On March 2, the Post also achieved an all-time high with 164 members. Much of the thanks for this must be attributed to the newspapers which have been printing the articles on the Post and Unit activities, as some prospective members have cited the fact that they have been reading about these organizations; they want to become involved in these worthwhile projects.

The time for electing new officers is fast approaching and the nominating committee has made its first report on its recommendations.

Plans are continuing for a tea to honor the 75 years of the Legion Auxiliary. This will be on April 30.

This month, the Oxford County Council will meet at Rumford Post on March 21 at 7:30 p.m.

The annual Girls State Tea will be April 24, also at Rumford. All the chosen delegates for this year's Girls State program in June are invited to attend and bring their families. All former delegates are also asked to return and share their experiences with the new lucky girls.

Rotary Club notes:

Rotary International has proclaimed February as World Community Service Month. Linda Varrell, International Service Director for the Bethel Rotary Club, and her committee have pioneered a Friendship Exchange with Ireland. This exchange will begin with four educators and two business persons from the Bethel club, joined with other area adults, traveling to Newry, Ireland, in May, to represent the club in searching for an exchange program possibility for both Rotary adults and community young adults/students.

The club's programs for the month of February included Ed Snook's Bethel Citizen/Lewiston Sun update; program on Youth Ski Training by John McCafferty and Eric Schandelmeyer from Sunday River Skiway; presentation from Sandy Dennis, the publisher/president of a new quarterly publication, "Out of the Cradle," premiering locally in April, targeting new writers; and providing an uncommon reader which will appeal to people of all walks of life; and Robert Long and his sidekick, a Labrador retriever named Mattie from the Maine State Fire Marshall's Office, and their demonstration on the use of canines in fire investigations.

The Bethel Rotary Club welcomed the installation of three new members: Jim Mann, Arlen Seiden, and Rob Ochtera, bringing the club to a total of 43 current members. Also, welcomed as the youngest member of their "family of Rotary," was Terry and Kristy Elsemore's new daughter, Katelyn.

Upcoming programs include the annual Career Day at Telstar on March 8 and a Country Breakfast at Gould Academy on March 26.

In their 21st year, Bethel Rotary Club meets every Tuesday morning, 7:30 a.m. at the Bethel Inn.

RAIN GUTTER REGATTA—Kurt Wight, left, and Ben Shimamura blow their boats the length of the course during Pack 566's 1st Rain Gutter Regatta. Following the Regatta the annual Blue and Gold Banquet was held at Crescent Park School. The scouts have extended a special thank-you to Western Maine Supply Co., P.H. Chadbourne, and the Unicorn Flower Shop for their donations.

News from the

The Bethel Library

The March foreign and classic movies from Check It Out! Video Library Program are "Macao," "Full Moon in Paris," "White Mischief," "Mata Hari," "Verigo," "Marjorie Morningstar," "The Hustler," "Alberta Hunter: My Castle's Rockin'," "Treasure Island," and "Stories from the Black Tradition." As always, these movies cost the library $20 per month, and a small donation when borrowing them is greatly appreciated.

Books added to the Bethel Library's permanent collection recently include: "A Suitable Vengeance" by Elizabeth George, "The Oceans Atlas" by Ganeri, "The Spectator Bird" by Wallace Stegner, "The Glass Lake" by Maeve Binchy, "Reindeer Hunters" by Joan Wolf, "Remembrance" by Jude Deveraux, "Acceptable Risk" by Robin Cook, "The Rock that is Higher" by Madeleine L'Engle, "The Marriage of Cadmus and Harmony" by Calasso, "Everville" by Clive Barker, "From Time to Time" by Jack Finney, "The Juror" by George Green, "The Diary of Anne Frank: The Definitive Edition," "No Ordinary Time" by Doris Kearns Goodwin, "Op Center" by Tom Clancy, "Alone" by d'Aboville.

Gift/Memorial books given to the Bethel Library recently include "The New Ourselves Growing Older" from Melody Bonnema and the Senior Citizens, "A Horse of Your Own: The Rider-Owner's Complete Guide," in memory of Chris Hanscom from Owen and Sue Wight and Family, and "Champions: Stories of Ten Remarkable Athletes" by Bill Littlefield in memory of Archie Post from Owen and Sue Wight and Family. Thanks also to Susan Lincoln, Annie Feeney, Suzanne Taylor, and Ruth Feeney for their generous donations of books and audio tapes. We are always pleased to receive materials from the public, which may add to the library's collection or be sold at the book sale.

If you haven't had a chance to see this year's quilt for the Mollycoddle Day Quilt Raffle, stop in and see the beautiful Amish striped quilt crafted by the Cross Country Quilters. The tickets are now ready, so please support the library in this fundraising effort.

Thanks to Jack Nordahl's computer assistance, there is a new CD-

ROM available for patron reference use. "U.S. Atlas 5" is a multimedia program with full-color topographic, statistical, political, and relief maps; aerial video clips of spectacular sites, landmarks and natural wonders in all 50 states, detailed maps of major cities, high-resolution photography, and even state songs. This multimedia view of the United States should prove valuable for researchers of school reports or families planning a vacation.

BIKE TREK FILLING FAST

American Lung Association of Maine's 1995 Trek Across Maine is already more than half full with more than 800 participants signed up, according to Allyson Schade-Evans, Trek manager.

The first 1525 registrants will be accepted, she said.

The Trek Across Maine is a three-day bicycling adventure across the state of Maine. It begins at the Sunday River Ski Resort, spends the first night at the University of Maine at Farmington, the second night at Colby College in Waterville and finishes on the shores of the Penobscot Bay at the Samoset Resort in Rockport for a total of 180 miles.

Meals, accommodations, rest stops, medical and mechanical support, incentives for raising more than the minimum pledge requirement and excellent communication are included in this spectacular event. More than 130 volunteers help to run this event and make it successful.

This year's Trek, known to many as the "rite of spring," will be held June 16, 17 and 18. Organizers are expecting to fill up quickly as their major promotions begin. "Last year at this time, we were receiving 20 to 30 applications a day," comments Schade-Evans, "we don't want people to wait to sign up and then miss out on this exciting ride." For more information and an application, call the American Lung Association of Maine at 1-800-458-6472.

The major sponsors of the 1995 Trek Across Maine - Sunday River to the Sea include: Sunday River Ski Resort, L.L. Bean, NewsChannel 13, Konica quality Photo East, Inc., and The Chinnet Company.

In Loving Memory of Richard Kimball, JR. March 15, 1989

Time seems so long and lonely
Since you were taken away
These are days when we cannot believe
That you have gone to stay
You never said goodbye to us
But perhaps it's just as well
For we never could have said goodbye
To a son who loved so well
When all is said and done
I'll keep looking for your eyes
For they are one of a kind
When you are gone we miss you
And put flowers there with care
But no one knows the heartache
When we hear and see you there.
Please, God, keep a secret heart
A heart that was so true
Don't let the world know
How much we miss you
Love him, remember him, never forgotten
Mom, Dad, Brothers & Sisters
